A brief history of the Allen Gardiner

Built in Miami, Florida in 1942 as a South African Air Force air-sea rescue launch, the Allen Gardiner has the character of a fine wooden ship. In 2011 she underwent a rebuild before being transported over to Ipswich from Durban, South Africa.

With plenty of space to host a maximum of 12 dining passengers, the Allen Gardiner cruises from the Wet Dock in Ipswich, under the stunning Orwell Bridge down to Port of Felixstowe, the largest container terminal in Britain. For parties over 12, the boat remains moored.
