EXTRA, EXTRA, READ ALL ABOUT IT BEST FISH AND CHIPS IN LONDON

All the fish used at Poppies is sustainable. It's caught on day boats and then delivered to the shop by third-generation Billingsgate fishmonger and old friend, Joe from T. Bush. Every morning Poppies' in house fishmonger, Salih Sadik fillets the whole fish, while other members of the team begin peeling and slicing the award-winning potatoes for Poppies' legendary chips. It's this winning formula which has earned Poppies cult-status. A combination of ethical awareness, care and precision, mixed with decades of experience, jellied eels, and a hefty dose of East End charm.

ABOUT OUR POPS

Poppies is renowned for authentic fish and chips – and it's little wonder, with born and bred East-end proprietor, Pat 'Pop' Newland, at the helm. Now in his seventies, Pop's career in the fish and chip business started aged 11, when he got a job on Roman Road cutting up copies of The Daily Mirror to wrap fish and chips in.

Half a century on, with decades of experience behind him, 'Pop' fulfilled a lifelong dream of founding his own fish and chip shop, lending his name to the first branch of Poppies. The batter recipe may be decades old, and the decor is inspired by East End icons from Pop's childhood – but beyond the nostalgia, Poppies is helping steer the fish and chip industry into a new era.
