Chapultepec Castle

Chapultepec Castle & Anthropology Museum

Live the experience of visiting one of the few castles in a large city such as the City of Mexico. Chapultepec Castle houses the most representative of Mexico historical heritage through times like the conquest, the empire, independence and revolution. Meet the life of Emperor Maximilian of Habsburg behind these classical European ornamentation decorated rooms. Walk the halls full of light, made of marble stairs, admiring the sculptures and busts of historical figures, like the emperor Cuauhtémoc and the conquer Hernán Cortés.

After visiting the National Museum of History or better known as the Castle of Chapultepec, we will stop for lunch and continue to the famous National Museum of Anthropology. One of the most important in Latin America rooms housing the prehispanic evidence of the Mexico, Maya, Toltec and the country's ethnic cultures through time.

You will learn from your experimented and bilingual guide which will drive you into this both amazing museums. After this you will ask for more about Mexico History.

Castle.

During the colonial period, Chapultepec was appreciated as a place of resting and relaxation, for which it was built at the base of the hill, on the foundations of what was once the residence of Moctezuma II Xocoyotzin, a palace that gave shelter to numerous viceroys and distinguished visitors for over two centuries. However, the explosion of a powder magazine in the mid-eighteenth century, which caused serious damage in the building, led to the decision that the new palace was built on top of the hill, right on the site of an ancient chapel dedicated to San Miguel archangel.

Anthropology Museum.

Nearly half a century after its creation, the National Museum of Anthropology remains the flagship of the enclosures that safeguard the Mexican indigenous heritage. It stands as a symbol of identity and mentor to generations who are seeking their cultural roots. Amazing is the expertise of its construction, innovative design, art and symbolism, which have given a widely recognized personality around the world.

Xochimilco & Coyoacán

Xochimilco, Coyoacán & Frida Kahlo Museum Tour

This is one of our most colorful excursions not only to visit the famous “Blue House”, but also because of the majestic architecture of the National University of Mexico (UNAM), the landscape and the picturesque colonial Coyoacan and Xochimilco colors, well, its name says it all: “Place of Flowers.”

The first stop is Coyoacan, which in Nahuatl means “place of those coyotes”

We will continue our journey south of the city to a favorite of Frida Kahlo, Xochimilco places. The history of this place begins many years ago in ancient Mexico.

Coyoacán.

The history of this place comes from prehispanic time, it was in this area where the first community centers in the highlands of Mesoamerica developed, for more than 2,500 years this place has been changing and evolving, either because of natural causes, such as volcanic eruptions or human intervention as the urban area has expanded.

Casa Azul, Frida Kahlo Museum.

When you dig deeper in the knowledge of the work of Frida Kahlo and you have the privilege of knowing her home, the intense relationship between Frida, her work and her home is discovered. Her creative universe is in the Blue House, place where she was born and died. Although married to Diego Rivera she lived in different places in Mexico City and abroad, Frida always returned to her house in Coyoacan.
